You needn't tell me
—I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!

Milder because they're fresh CAMELS are never parched or toasted!

FOLKS who smoke really fresh cigarettes made from choice sun-ripened tobaccos never have to give a thought to their throats.

That's because such fresh cigarettes retain natural moisture—and are gratefully smooth, cool, throat-friendly, mild.

Camels are the fresh cigarette—everyone knows that now—they're blended from the finest Turkish and mild Domestic tobaccos that money and skill can buy.

We would never dream of parching or toasting these choice sun-ripened tobaccos—that would only drive off or destroy the natural moisture that makes Camels fresh in nature's own mild way.

The Camel Humidor Pack protects a fine cigarette fresh with natural moisture—it could do little or nothing to freshen a cigarette that is dried-out or factory-stale.

If you smoke for pleasure, see for yourself what freshness means in mildness and flavor—switch to Camels for just one day—then leave them, if you can!

CAMELS

Made FRESH—Kept FRESH

Don't remove the moisture-proof wrapping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. In offices and homes, even in the dry atmosphere of artificial heat, the Camel Humidor Pack delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked

THE USUAL WARNING

We would not be honest with our readers if we didn't print the usual warning of this season of the year against starting the auto with the doors of the garage closed. Despite the fact that this and almost every other paper in this country issues a warning against monoxide gas every fall, the toll of death from this source continues to run high. It takes but a second to open doors and windows of a garage in case you want to work on the car and expect to start up the motor. If you are going to back out, you have to leave the doors open anyhow. So why not make sure they are open before you ever touch your foot to the starter? It is your only protection against deadly monoxide gas. You may not be able to get out of the car and open the doors after the motor is started—for monoxide gas can kill in less than a minute of time. Be on the safe side—and there is but one safe side. See that doors and windows of the garage are open before you start the car.

LIONS IN A HURRY

(Louisville Times.)
The Hickman Lions Club acts hastily in urging the repeal of the Brock-Gilbert law. The club's resolution, as summarized in a dispatch, holds that the law "is not more likely to prevent fraud than the system used up until last year and that it is not worth three to five days delay in announcing the official returns."

If the first of these propositions had been established, the second would, of course, follow. If it could be shown to be true that the new law is ineffective as a fraud-preventive, no one would disagree with the Lions as to the uselessness of the provisions regarding the tabulation of returns.

However, the evidence available thus early in the history of the law's operation warrants no such opinion. If the Brock-Gilbert law is to be replaced, in whole or in part, the repeaters will have to produce supported statements concerning what has happened, not unsupported statements concerning what is "likely."

It was not somebody's random, academic opinion of what was "likely" to happen under the old law that caused it to be supplanted; it was what most persons thought had happened.

Nevertheless, the Hickman Lions deserve credit in that apparently they recognize as some of the other critics of the law do not—and its critics, incidentally, are not numerous—that the fact that the law somewhat delays returns is not, in itself, a sufficient argument against it. Not a single reason that can be offered for haste in the tabulation of returns carries any weight against the importance of a safely honest count.

Office-holders are not inaugurated on election night. There is no way on earth by which the mandate of the voters as expressed at the polls can be carried into effect, under our system, the day after the election or even the day after that. The small interim of uncertainty entailed by the Brock-Gilbert law—and, in practice, in two statewide elections it has proved for practical purposes small indeed—is a curious argument against it in a country where no effective protest has ever been mustered against the delay of more than a year that normally intervenes between the election of a Congressman and his beginning to function.

JUST JOTS

Theodore Dreiser, prominent American novelist and parlor pink, came off second best in a verbal encounter with our friend, Herndon Evans, publisher of the Pineville Sun, during an examination into the mine disasters of Eastern Kentucky. Mr. Evans, we have no doubt, gave the New Yorkers a distinctly different impression of what ever ideas Mr. Dreiser and associates might have had of the "country editor."

But maybe Dreiser has the last laugh on Kentucky after all. He got a right smart of attention while here and we suspect that's about all he came for.

Letter to Editor

WE PASS ON THIS FINE LETTER FROM "BILL" PIGUE

Friday the Thirteenth, November, 1931.
Mr. Joe Lovett, Editor, The Murray Ledger & Times, Murray, Kentucky.

Dear Joe:
Attached is a scrap of paper which, under favorable circumstances, will be accepted at the First National Bank at Pittsburgh as being the equivalent of four bits, or one-half dollar. I want that History of Calloway County.

Why I want such a history, I don't know. For I think I am hep to Calloway county's history even back into the antiplogistic times, because it was on her hallowed soil that my comb became red and my spurs began to sprout. Only this week I passed through your wonderful little city, and, honest, it was with restraint that I kept from getting out of my benzine buggy and, a la Columbus of his discovery of sweet America, kissing the earth.

Though, down on a hurried, sad mission—to attend the bedside of my father, who on the morning I departed was missing his first Memphis Conference meeting in 48 years—I could not but be thrilled as I raced over the new, strong concrete bridge above Clark's river, where lurks the ghost of the biggest and fastest fish ever caught, my first. And on by the old depot, which like the brook, never changes, but goes on getting nastier and uglier year by year; the public square, at whose northwest corner I used to sit with Old Trimble and the delivery wagon, waiting on Ryan or Duncanson or somebody to hold up a finger and whistle for me to come to deliver a ton or a pound anywhere in town for a dime; out by the schoolhouse where Mrs. Cutchin tried by beating one end of me to drive some sense into the other end of me. It is always a great experience, something like a trip to the Holy Land, so laden is it with boyhood memories.

Which reminds me, old man, that the Murray Ledger & Times is the best "country" newspaper I ever read—and I know my country newspapers. It is a paper with a personality, and every issue contains something worth its year's cost. You're not doing that sitting around, the first three days of the week and fishing the last three days! A lot of credit is due Murray merchants, who seem to know how to use newspaper space profitably.

But I didn't mean to go into competition with your historian—just meant to shoot the half peso and get the book, so excuse me, please. When I get to thinking about Murray and Calloway county, and there's a type-writer under me, I'm not quite responsible, and all that sort of thing. Sincerely,

Bill.

Lewis Butler Collects Old Coins in Brief Time

Lewis Butler, young merchant of the Kirksey section, has made a rapid job of collecting a nice assortment of old coins.

Mr. Butler became interested in old pieces of money when reading about coins in the Ledger & Times early in the year and began to save them as they came into his hands over the counter of his store.

Trappist Monks

The Trappist monks are a reformed order of the Cistercian order, instituted in 1662 by Armand Jean le Bouthellier de Rance. Assuming control of the Abbey of La Trappe in 1666 he found it in a deplorable condition. The main purpose was to restore the discipline of the monastery. From La Trappe this austere rule spread into other parts of Europe, where it met with such instant favor that some of the most flourishing monastic houses in the world are now those of the Trappist reformers. In the United States there are three Cistercian abbeys, La Trappe at Gettysburg, Ky.; New Melarey, near Dubuque, Iowa; and our Lady of the Valley, Cumberland, R. I.

The Pomp of Power

Nicholas II (of Russia) liked living in a small South German palace rather than anywhere else. In Hesse the czar knew that he was safe against attempts on his life, which was always possible in Russia, and then on the banks of the pretty stream of Darm, he could live the free, quiet life of a private gentleman. In there better proof of the worthlessness of all royal pomp and circumstance than the fact that what the autocrat of all the hundred million Russians loved most was to go in a slow train from Darmstadt to Frankfurt, incognito as far as possible, and there to buy ties and gloves in the street?—From Von Bulow's Memoirs, Page 193.

Police Out of Date

The insurance policy issued by Lloyd's on marine risks has undergone but little change in the past century and a half, since it was first printed, says an article in Fortune Magazine. The opening sentence, "The ship named the name of God Amen," but it has been changed to "Be it known that," This is perhaps the greatest change in the policies of Lloyd's, which are full of contradictions and grandiose language; so much so that an English judge once declared that if it were drawn up today it would be considered "the work of a lunatic endowed with a private sense of humor."

Machines in Vineyards

Machine-age methods are now used in the large vineyards of northern Africa. Whereas in former days the spraying of the vines was done by hand, great numbers of natives being employed, each carrying on his back a copper cylinder loaded with poisonous dust, mechanical means are now coming to the front. Horses and mules, or motor trucks when the ground is favorable, carry a large metal apparatus which scatters poison by means of compressed air. This mechanization has, it is said, increased the wine yield per acre.

Kirksey Hi News

The students were entertained in chapel Armistice Day by a special program. The Kirksey band played several selections. In the absence of Mr. Floyd, the band was directed by Miss Stark. A reading, "Yellow Butterflies" was given by Miss Vivian Venable. This was very fitting for the occasion as the grave of the unknown soldier was the theme of the selection. The program was enjoyed very much by the student body.

The primary and intermediate grades, under the direction of Miss Cain and Miss McCallion, are preparing a Thanksgiving program to be given Wednesday night, November 25. This program will be the closing event before the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Kirksey debating team will begin arranging debates with other schools now that the material will soon be sent out from Lexington. The debaters this year will be Bura Edwards, W. A. Palmer, Reva Mae Cain, and Kelly Rogers. Two new members have been added this season.

The Eagles defeated Faxon's Cardinals in a fast game played on the Kirksey floor. The final score was 31-26. Edwards, Kirksey forward, was high point man of the game.
